Fuel stop

The U.S. tanker, Lawrence Gianella, gets a tugboat push up to the 1324th Military Port Command's pier in Praia Monday afternoon. The ship delivered more than 9 million gallons of JP-8 fuel. Fuel ships like this arrive at the port three times per year delivering the aviation fuel. The tanker holds enough fuel to nearly fill one of the fuel storage tanks between the port and base. Before downloading begins, U.S. and Portuguese inspectors ensure the fuel meets quality standards for use in U.S., Portuguese and allied aircraft.

Dining hall gets new menu items

Aug. 4 marked a milestone of sorts, as the Tradewinds Dining Facility began some changes which could have people talking.

The facility began adding Portuguese menu items onto its list of entrees.

Tuesday the dining hall staff began offering its customers a sandwich-to-order bar as part of short order line service.

According to TSgt. Venetia Williams, Tradewinds manager, so far everything has gone extremely well.

"The pivotal point to all the changes are customers taking the time to fill out customer comment cards," she said. "The addition of the Portuguese menu items and the sandwich bar are a result of customer inputs. So far, we've had some excellent feedback from people who have used the facility."

Williams said food is a major quality of life issue, especially for those on meal cards and who must use the Tradewinds on a daily basis.

"Variety is important and the new menu items have helped us open up a little. We're just trying to provide our customers with high quality food, prompt and courteous service and a pleasant environment and they're helping us achieve that by telling us what they want."

Co-op offers parents affordable option

SSgt. Rosaire Bushey
Editor

For parents who want to get out on their own every now and then without spending a lot of money on child care services, the Lajes Babysitting Co-op is a dream come true.

The co-op works as an organization helping out each other - for free.

"Basically, we're a group of people who arrange a schedule of when we can care for children," said Dawn Wehman, a co-op founder and co-chairperson. "When people want to go out, they arrange with someone on the list to babysit and they are expected to do likewise later."

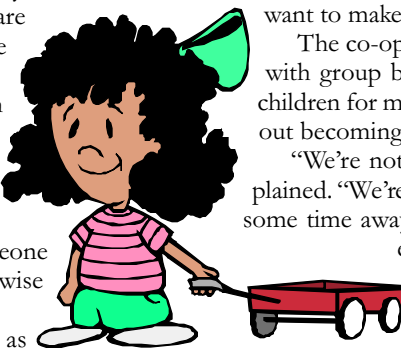

The membership process, however, isn't as easy as making a phone call. Prospective members must attend a meeting first and then have an in-home interview conducted. "We don't get into huge background investigations," Wehman said. "The co-op can't say its members can not use a particular sitter - we know that the responsibility of choosing a sitter lies with the parents. We just want to make sure for our members that the houses are safe."

The co-op also doesn't rely too heavily on any one individual with group by-laws clearly stating that members can't care for children for more than 10 hours per week on a regular basis without becoming a licensed family day care home.

"We're not trying to angle in on anyone's job," Wehman explained. "We're trying to create a system that parents can use to get some time away without worrying about the expense. It's a team effort and it works well because everyone has the same goal and is willing to help our their neighbors."

People interested in joining the co-op can call Wehman at Ext. 28896.

THIS OL' BASE

Summer is pest season

This is a re-run of our March column

For those of you who will be experiencing your first Terceira summer, this time of year is ant season at Lajes. Residents and base workers can control these pests by some common sense techniques. First, practice good housekeeping by regularly vacuuming, sweeping and cleaning around stoves, microwaves, refrigerators, between washers and dryers, around trash cans, along baseboards, and around food pantries. Remove pet dishes and pick up after your pet eats. Don't leave food open on tables and counters.

Foods and beverages containing sugar as well as some citrus fruits (even some lemon-scent furniture polishes) attract forager ants - in very large numbers.

Get some ant control bait stations - available at the base commissary and the military family housing maintenance self-help store (for MFH residents only). Strategically deploy the stations where ants travel to and from their colonies. Generally, bait stations should be positioned around cracks or crevices of the infested buildings. Forager ants will locate the bait stations, feed and take the insecticide back to the colony for egg-laying queens and other ants. When the egg-laying queen dies, the colony dies.

This is the safest, most effective, and environmentally-friendly treatment for ants. Surface sprays or contact sprays only kill the ants that are there foraging for food. While sprays may provide quick, short-term kills, in most cases, the ants are back in a few days. Bait stations take more time to take effect, but during ideal weather conditions can last up to three months. Do not touch bait stations after deployment. You want foragers to feed and return to the colony with the bait. Do not spray or apply any other insecticide.

According to DOD policy, it is the responsibility of MFH residents to control pests. If you can't, then call CE customer service to arrange for the pest control shop to conduct an integrated pest management survey.

TRICARE:

Your key to premium health care

SSgt. Daniel Rumphol
NCOIC, TRICARE Flight

Have you been wondering what this TRICARE is all about? How will it affect you here at Lajes? Will it cover you if you go on leave?

TRICARE is a triple-option healthcare plan that was designed to provide you alternative sources of care that is beyond the scope of our military treatment facilities. Some of our medical facilities were never designed to treat all beneficiaries' medical problems.

There are always times when some active duty and family members will have to be seen in a non-military facility. TRICARE has made the visit to a non-military medical facility much less complicated and less costly for all eligible beneficiaries. To illustrate the different options, we will compare the two portions of TRICARE which are available here at Lajes, TRICARE Prime and TRICARE Standard (formerly known as CHAMPUS). Take a look at the following examples:

Example 1:

TSgt. James Doe is stationed at Lajes, and has enrolled his family into TRICARE Europe Prime. They go back to the United States on vacation, where he and his wife get into an accident. She is taken to an emergency room for treatment, and is admitted for observation. TSgt. Doe contacts the TRICARE Service Center (TSC) using the 1-800 number which services the area he is in. He informs them they had an accident, and his wife has been admitted to a hospital. The TSC tells him that his wife is at a TRICARE Prime participating facility, and no action needs to be taken to transfer her.

Mrs. Doe gets discharged from the hospital two days later. Under TRICARE Standard, their bill would be $150 for the deductible, plus 20 percent of all allowed charges and 100 percent of all unallowed charges. If the ER bill came to $2,000, their 20% of the allowed charges would be $400. However, because they are enrolled in TRICARE Prime, the Doe family bill comes to only $52 ($30 for the ER visit and $11 per day inpatient stay).

Example 2

A1C June Dough is stationed at Lajes, and has enrolled her family in TRICARE Europe Prime. She and her husband go on leave to the United States, and her husband begins to feel sick. He knows he is not sick enough to go to an emergency room, but needs to be seen by a doctor. A1C Dough calls the TSC servicing the region and asks them for the name of the nearest TRICARE Prime provider to her location.

By zip code, they determine the name of a doctor who is only a couple of miles away. A1C Dough calls the doctor's office and gets an appointment for later that day. The doctor sees her husband, and prescribes some medicine. The doctor tells her the name of a TRICARE Prime participating pharmacy, and she gets the prescription filled. Total cost to A1C Dough is $6 for the doctor visit, and $5 for the prescription.

Had she not enrolled her husband, she would have paid the TRICARE Standard rate of $50 deductible, plus 20 percent of the remaining allowable charges about $50, and full reimbursement rate for the prescription, about $25. Her total cost would be about $85.

If these examples raise more questions, or pique your interest in what TRICARE Prime enrollment can do for you, then you need to plan on attending the TRICARE Europe Prime briefings which will be held Aug. 22 at the base theater at 9 a.m., 1 and 3 p.m.

If you have any other questions, call Ext. 23615.

Fireworks anthem

The following is an amalgamation of several different action line calls regarding the same issue.

During the July 4 fireworks celebration, the U.S. national anthem was not played. In other countries the anthem is played, why not here? I've never been stationed at a place where the anthem isn't played. Myself and several others were extremely disappointed and would like some clarification on what happened.

We received several calls regarding this and I asked our services director to coordinate future fireworks displays with Air Base No. 4 to include the national anthem and thereby make our show complete.

Beira Mar Gate guards

Is there some provisions that could be made for alternating days for a guard at the Beira Mar Gate. I know we have to support the Portuguese, but I feel we should show support for our military members who are walking to work. I would think it would be easier for everyone if the hospital gate and Beira Mar gates could be open on alternating days to help people in Beira Mar.

I share the concerns you have regarding access to our base by people living in Beira Mar. As you probably know, access to the base is controlled by Air Base No. 4 police. Presently, they don't have the people to open Beira Mar gate. The walk-through gate near the CE compound, like Beira Mar, is not open on a permanent basis. It's only open during high traffic times in conjunction with the civilian bus schedule and Portuguese work schedules. Opening Beira Mar continues to be one of my highest quality of life issues. We're exploring several options to get the gate open and offer greater access for Beira Mar residents. Hopefully, we will have a solution soon.

Exposure to sun can be disfiguring, deadly

*Take steps to limit exposure:
Use sunblock, wear long sleeves,
provide barriers between sun, skin*

Courtesy, Army Ground Accident Report Countermeasure

Ask anybody who has fallen asleep in the sun what exposure to ultraviolet rays can do to the human body. A weekend at the lake or on the beach and serious sunburn can send you to sick call and even a stay in the hospital.

If you think using sun block, wearing protective clothing and limiting exposure means you won't suffer any damage from the sun, think again.

Sunblock might let you spend the day in the sun without burning, but effects of exposure are cumulative. You could be setting a time bomb. Sunblock products vary so be sure to read the label and select the one that gives you the most protection.

While wearing long sleeves is better than exposing your skin, it still only provides a protection factor of 7 or 8; when wet, it's less. With light clothing especially, it's best to use a sunblock in addition to the long sleeves.

The best way to protect yourself from exposure to the sun is to avoid the hottest hours of the day.

The next best is to provide barriers between your skin and the sun. The best barriers are those that restrict exposure completely; awnings, umbrellas, roofs, and other structures.

Even if you're under a barrier like an umbrella, sunblock and protective clothing will help shield you from the sun and its reflection on sand and water.

Exposure to the sun can be a painful experience. Not only now, but also with its long term effects of wrinkling and skin cancer. The sun can not only be disfiguring, it can kill.

Q Can you tell me what the red seaweed that some of the locals collect from the sea is used for?

The seaweed the local nationals collect from the sea and lay on the ground to dry is intended to be processed at a local factory near Angra.

After an initial chemical process at the factory, the seaweed product is sent to more advanced chemical laboratories on the mainland where it is turned into products such as gelatin, glycerol, lipstick, medicine and much more.

rules concerning the paying of gratuities, or tips, for service in restaurants. The amount you pay, if any, should be based solely on the service you received at the restaurant. If you believe the service was good, feel free to use the same scale you use in the United States.

There are no restaurants that I am aware of that add a gratuity to their bills.

Q Do all Portuguese citizens serve in the military? If so, at what age and for how long?

According to the current

Portuguese Constitution, all male citizens must serve in the Portuguese military when they turn 20 years old.

The Portuguese military leaders and the government have, however, been discussing the possibility of eliminating military conscription to make the armed forces all volunteer.

The Portuguese Air Force for example, will in the next year or so, probably be the first armed forces branch to make that transition. In addition, all armed forces branches have been accepting female applicants on a voluntary basis for quite some time. Currently the duration of mandatory service is four months.

Membership drive paying off for club patrons

Ann LeBlond
Director of marketing,
65th Services Division

Services has selected the winners for their second drawing in the Air Force-wide club membership drive, Traditions Begin with You!

Brett Slickers, a member of the Ramstein Air Base, Germany Enlisted Club, has won the $5,000 AAFES shopping spree, compliments of Anheuser-Busch, Inc.

Locally, Cory Ladd of the 65th Medical Group won a Coca Cola mug and will receive his prize in the mail.

So far, three people from Lajes have received prizes, including A1C Veronica Haskins, 65th Security Forces Squadron, who won a mountain bike in July.

Prizes awarded in the drawing included mountain bikes, sports pagers, beach towels, coolers, T-shirts, and mugs, compliments of Coca-Cola USA.

Later this month, the third group of winners will be chosen to receive 50 Coca-Cola jackets, four vacation trips, and many other prizes.

The final set of winners, for the Jeep Grand Cherokee, four more vacation packages, and five $2,000 AAFES gift certificates, will be announced in early November.

"Traditions Begin with You has been an overwhelming success," said Kevin Small, Lajes Director of Services. "More than 160 new members have already joined the Top of the Rock Club."

The second part of the club membership drive, Membership and You - a Winning Tradition, ended July 31. Drawings will be conducted in August to award a Jeep Cherokee and credits for $1,997 to two members' club card accounts.

"There's still time to join in this promotion and have a chance at these great prizes," added Small. "Traditions Begins with You! is just one of the many benefits of club membership — visit your club and find out more about this program and what we have to offer."

The new club grand opening will be held Sept. 18 at 11:30 a.m.

Tip of the Week

Courtesy - Lajes First Sergeant's Council

For you folks out there who are worried about that farmer's tan, here's a little tidbit quoted directly from the AFI concerning wear of the BDU shirt: "Long-sleeved camouflage pattern may be rolled up; if rolled up, sleeve material must match shirt and will touch or come within 1 inch of forearms when arm is bent at 90-degree angle." Please keep in mind that the BDU shirt is only to be removed in the immediate work area. Have a great Air Force day!
